Healthful Hints

For Insomnia.

Heat 1 glass of milk to boiling point, add enough sugar to suit the taste, and 2 tablespoonsful of Duffy's pure malt whiskey; stir well and drink slowly. If taken before retiring this will quiet the nerves and produce restful sleep. It is a simple remedy that can be prepared by any one very quickly.

Dr. I. S. Townsend, of Detroit, Mich., who is an authority, says: "This recipe will cure insomnia and build up the weak, nervous and debilitated."

PROTEST BY SCHOOL BOYS

Go on Strike and Carry Grievances Direct to Mayor.

Baltimore, Md., September 21.—Carrying banners setting forth their grievances in glaring words, half a hundred school boys, whose ages ranged from six to fifteen years, marched to City Hall yesterday and protested to Mayor Preston against their school being taken from the white pupils and given over to negro children.

The Mayor listened amiably to the fifteen-year-old spokesman of the delegation, who put the case in plain school boy language, and solemnly warned him that if he turned out it would mean the death to Democratic party in Baltimore.

"Too bad," laughed the Mayor, who he never interfered in school affairs.

The meeting came to a sudden end when a shrill voice broke in with the announcement that a photographer wanted to take their picture for the newspapers.

The school board recently transferred the pupils of public school No. 31, at Arkye Avenue and Lanvale Street, to other schools because it is in an almost exclusively colored district. The board's refusal to restore the school to the whites led to a strike of the transferred children.

MARRIED WOMEN EXCLUDED

Franchise Club Organized of "Girls Above Years Old."

Chicago, September 21.—A suffrage club was organized here last night in which married women will not be eligible as members. Thirty young women make up the charter membership of the organization, which is to be known as the Young Women's Suffrage Club of Hyde Park and Woodlawn. All members must be at least eighteen years of age, and while no age limit has been fixed, the young women have let it be known that only young and unmarried members of their sex need apply.

"We are for woman's suffrage, but do not know yet what party we will favor," said Miss Hilary L. Hoge, who was chosen president. "We know a lot about politics, and when we have finished studying the platforms we will announce which party we will support."

LONG CHASE AFTER BURGLARS

Two men Surprised While Looting Storehouse in Chicago.

New York, September 21.—Following a twenty-minute chase over fences in the vicinity of West Twentieth Street, two men were arrested early yesterday, charged with burglary. Five other men escaped.

The party of alleged burglars was surprised while looting the storehouse of Julius Cohen & Co., manufacturers of coats and suits.

The police found $12,300 worth of stuff packed up outside the building, while inside they found seven dark lanterns, two sticks of dynamite and a fine collection of burglar tools.

MISS JAMES INOGENE GREGORY.

Recent Labor Legislation in Great Britain

Social unrest is characteristic of the age. The chasm between wealth and poverty is widening. The conflict between labor and capital is waging with increased determination. The tendency of the times is toward socialism.

That socialism would improve conditions is very doubtful. That it is at all practicable has not been demonstrated. But that something must be done to stem the rising tide, statesmen in America, Great Britain and Europe admit. In the hearts of the noblest public men is something different from the impulse of self-preservation. They are actuated by a desire to help the poor and to heal the open sore of pauperism. To this end, Great Britain has enacted legislation in recent years which is intended to benefit the workingman, and America is now debating issues of a similar nature.

Three acts of the British Parliament will be treated in these letters. The first was passed in 1908, and is known as the Old Age Pension Act. It provided a full pension of $1.20 per week for persons over seventy years of age who have resided in Great Britain for the last twenty years, and whose income does not exceed $105 per annum. Where the income is larger than the above amount, but is less than $177.12, the pension is graded down to 24 cents per week. Pensions are not allowed where the income exceeds $177.12 per annum.

In order to qualify for the pension an applicant must be vouched for by two persons who certify that for the last twelve years he has worked according to ability and supported those dependent upon him. He must not have been in prison for a period exceeding six weeks during the last ten years, nor in prison at all during the last two years, according to the discretion of the judge. He must not be receiving the Poor Law Relief, except that when ill he may be allowed medicine and medical attendance from the workhouses for as long as three months. His age and residence in the kingdom must be established to the satisfaction of the court. In reckoning income a per cent is calculated on all investments and upon bank deposits. The pension applies to a man's wife as well as to himself. That is, he may receive twice the amount if his wife is over seventy.

The government pays the pension without collecting any sums at any time from the beneficiary. The old people, who are poor, are enthusiastic in their praise of the law, and the young and the rich do not object to the government making this provision for old age. This act is the earliest of the recent legislation and is in successful operation. Drawing as it does, upon the treasury of the kingdom, it was not necessary for time to lapse for the accumulation of funds. It is now giving the necessities of life to worthy, aged British poor, and is liberating many a toiler's mind of the dreadful apprehension of gaunt poverty staring him in the face in the evening of life.
